Trait Report

These traits are the science behind sokanu. Your scores paint a picture of what you enjoy and find interesting, the strengths and vulnerabilities of your personality, and the most interesting aspects of your ideal career. They're the basis of your career matches and they power the insights that make up each of your reports.

How to read this report

When you answered questions in our assessment, we learned more about you and how you score across a number of traits. Each of your traits on this page is represented by a histogram - a chart that shows how you score versus other users. The height of each bar represents how many people scored in a given range. Here is an example to help you understand.

Artistic

This bar shows the proportion of people that scored between 40 and 50 on this trait.

49 | 72

The first score shows your raw score. This score is out of 100 and measures how strong or weak you are on a trait.

The second score shows your percentile. This score is out of 100 and indicates the percentage of people who scored lower than you.

Your Broad Interests

Broad Interests measure the type of activities you enjoy. They are based on the Holland Code Occupational
